As the importance of environmental stewardship becomes clearer, teaching children how they can help becomes an important task for all caregivers. If You Love Honey illustrates the connection between honey, honey bees, and all of the plant and animal life that sustain them. Lush illustrations support the text, showing the richness of the earth and at least a few of its inhabitants. Suggested lessons and further readings at the end offer children an opportunity to create something in their world to help the environment. Ages 4 - 9.
