

Parks for the People: The Life of Frederick Law Olmsted

Julie Dunlap

Fulcrum

Softcover $12.95 (112pp)

978-1-55591-470-7

Dedicated to all children seeking a sense of place, Dunlap reveals the passion of America's leading landscape architect, the man largely responsible for how our major cities look and function today. From Boston's Emerald Necklace of green spaces to Central Park in Manhattan, Olmsted's visions were realized thanks to the numerous people assisting him. Readers learn the importance of parks to our health and emotional well-being, as well how engineers and historians may be employed. Ages nine to thirteen.

(Spring 2012)

Disclosure: This article is not an endorsement, but a review. The publisher of this book provided free copies of the book to have their book reviewed by a professional reviewer. No fee was paid by the publisher for this review. Foreword Reviews only recommends books that we love. Foreword Magazine, Inc. is disclosing this in accordance with the Federal Trade Commission's 16 CFR, Part 255.