

Play-by-Play: Tales From a Sports Broadcaster Insider

Bill Mercer

Taylor Trade (Sep 25, 2007)

Unknown $16.95 (320pp)

978-1-58979-224-1

Sports Perspectives: Bill Mercer began broadcasting in 1949, just after graduating from the University of Colorado; but his love of sports began on the playground in Muskogee, Oklahoma. Too short and skinny to try out for the team in junior high, he settled for the position of manager. “Those were the days of heavy canvas pants, heavy shirts, heavy leather helmets, heavy shoes—heavy everything. I grew muscle just lifting that stuff,” he writes.

In Play by Play: Tales From a Sports Broadcaster Insider (Taylor Trade, 240 pages, softcover, $16.95, 978-1-58979-224-1), Mercer goes on to describe his rodeo of broadcasting engagements: sometimes the field had grass, sometimes not, sometimes a phone, sometimes the announcer booth was a bucket full of pigeon poo. Play by Play is a fascinating account of the conditions, politics, and promotion of everything from football to boxing over the last fifty years. Check out the gruesome photo of Kox and Muroco from 1978. Ah, the good old days.

(August 18, 2009)

Disclosure: This article is not an endorsement, but a review. The author of this book provided free copies of the book to have their book reviewed by a professional reviewer. No fee was paid by the author for this review. Foreword Reviews only recommends books that we love. Foreword Magazine, Inc. is disclosing this in accordance with the Federal Trade Commission's 16 CFR, Part 255.