Primary colors pop in this celebratory picture book about supporting children's senses of being. Frankie couldn't be more excited for her garden party, where there will be pickles, and jelly beans, and decorations galore. But her mom picked out three dresses for her to wear, and none suit her spectacular expectations. She wants to wear something marvelous: "with lightning bolts and stars and style." She has little hope that such an outfit exists, but with help from her family, her dream is achieved!
